About us:

IEEE-Eta Kappa Nu is the National honor society for electrical engineers, computer engineers and computer scientists. The Epsilon Xi chapter of IEEE-Eta Kappa Nu was established on May 22, 1966 at Wichita State University. Some of the benefits of being a member are:

Academic Accomplishment: Ensure that your exceptional academic accomplishment and strong character is publicly recognized by the entire engineering industry.

Networking Opportunities: Gain numerous networking opportunities by joining an organization that has members in leading roles with corporations, government and universities.

Long-term Relationships: Build a network of long-term relationships that will aid your career with IEEE-HKN students who will become your friends and professional colleagues.

Leadership Skills: Develop leadership skills to prepare for high track professional careers.

About the Awards:

The Department of Electrical Engineering and Computer Science and IEEE-HKN Epsilon Xi Chapter joined hands in Spring 2015 to celebrate the success of our graduates. As a part of this collaborative effort we recognize your achievements. Graduating graduate and undergraduate students are invited to nominate themselves or someone else for the IEEE-HKN student awards. The finalists and winners will be recognized during the end of the semester celebrations immediately after commencement ceremony.

Recognizing the excellence through these awards is a key aspect of IEEE-HKN Epsilon Xi Chapter and therefore, it will be our honor to identify and award those who display the 3 ideals that we seek for in an individual:

Scholarship - Character - Attitude

We are inviting nominations for the following awards

IEEE-HKN James Maxwell Award: This is presented to the outstanding graduating senior who has demonstrated excellence in scholarship, character and attitude.

IEEE-HKN Charles Wheatstone Award: This is presented to the outstanding graduating graduate student (MS and Ph.D.) who has demonstrated excellence in scholarship, ability to learn independently, character and attitude.
